Australia's leading caravan and motorhome manufacturers fit AL-KO componentry as standard because they know that they can rely on the AL-KO product quality.

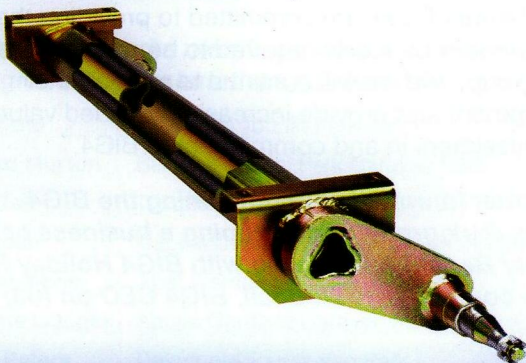

For decades AL-KO has been supplying the RV industry and over that time have developed products specifically to withstand the rigours of the Australian landscape.

One of the most important criteria to caravan owners when purchasing a van is towing comfort and safety. This is why AL-KO products are always found on award winning caravans as its product range is dedicated to helping caravan owners enjoy their time out on the road.

Some of the key AL-KO products on leading recreational vehicles today include the AMC Motorhome Chassis, AL-KO IRS (Independent Rubber Suspension) Axles, Off Road Electric Brakes, Premium Drop-Down Corner Steadies with Big Feet and Premium Jockey Wheels.

AL-KO supply the AMC Chassis to numerous motor-home manufacturers using Fiat cabs. Features of this cleverly designed chassis include an increased load carrying capacity, reduced total height of the vehicle because of its low frame, a lower loading height and a low centre of gravity which improves road holding and cornering performance.

The low frame chassis also enables wheelbase variations and a different track width, ensuring sufficient space for your motor-home body with no additional modification required. The wider track provides additional performance optimization and ensures exceptional driving safety and comfort.

The AMC Chassis is further enhanced with independent torsion bar suspension or optional air suspension to make this the ideal product for motor-home manufacturers building a premium product.

AL-KO I.R.S. Axles are the benchmark in fully independent trailer suspension with more than 10 million axles manufactured worldwide.

AL-KO Off-Road Electric Brakes have been designed specifically for Australian off road conditions. The registered design incorporates a high tech plastic core in the magnet that reduces the vibration and wear, as well as withstanding the high temperatures present in heavy braking conditions.

The AL-KO Drop-Down Corner Steady is the most versatile corner steady on the market. The best feature of this product its multi-positional legs. When arriving on site the corner steady is easily accessed on the side of the caravan chassis. The positive direct gear drive makes it easy to fit the handle and effortless to wind.

The AL-KO Drop-Down Corner Steady comes complete with the Big Foot™. It provides a flat load bearing surface and therefore adds extra stability to caravans on any surface, especially soft ground. The Big Foot™ is also sold separately.
